

Tackling Bulky Waste in the South East

Solutions for waste carpets and mattresses

Company Profiles

Remade South East is a not-for-profit company which helps to divert valuable waste away from landfill into new products and end-uses by implementing re-use and recycling schemes.

Remade works with businesses, public organisations and community groups in the South East region to find practical solutions to challenging waste issues. Working with a range of local, national and regional partners, Remade seeks to minimise the region's environmental footprint by saving natural resources and reducing CO2 emissions.

Carpet Recycling UK is a not for profit membership organisation, founded in 2008 by directors Laurance Bird, Kate Chappel and Bill Tippett to increase the uptake of carpet recycling in the UK. Since April 2010 the scheme has been managed by Jane Gardner of Axion Consulting. Carpet Recycling UK drives innovation in end-of-life solutions for carpets by providing practical support for carpet recyclers, developing new and higher value end uses for carpet recyclates and raising awareness at a policy level about issues surrounding the recycling of carpets.

The company was established in 2010 and covers the whole of the South East from its main depot in Kent. Along with its mattress recycling service, Eco-Matt handles a variety of plastic and paper waste, which in the majority of cases is picked up free of charge from customer's premises. All materials handled by the company are recycled as fully as possible, with the aim of reducing landfill output to 0%.
